

Date: Wednesday, June 17 2009 @ 03:18:13 CEST
Topic: Team-aXiom

Homepage Update

As you might have noticed, there have been huge updates on our homepage recently. This is caused due to us becoming an active clan again, almost ready to rejoin competition.

The content of the page is as good as done. Sorting out some useless features and adding a nice menu and updating our members and war section, as well as adding some new features, the page should be more comfortable and prettier to surf on.

You might want to recheck the new download section once in a while. The plans for now are mostly filling it with useful downloads such as maps or demos. You'll probably also find some funnier stuff there, like new sabers or mods.

Furthermore, we'll change our forums from the free board we link to, to a better version, without any advertising, on our own webspace. If you have already registered on our homepage, there's no need to do anything else because the board will use the same account.

See you in battle!

This article comes from Team-aXiom - X-cellent Online Gaming:
<http://www.team-axiom.com>

The URL for this story is:
<http://www.team-axiom.com/index.php?op=NEArticle&sid=8>